Harry Kissock is a Risk and Security Consultant at Lowers & Associates, bringing more than a decade of global experience in hostile and non-hostile environments. With a foundation in military service and specialist training in close protection, surveillance, and emergency response, Harry offers a deep understanding of risk mitigation in complex, high-stakes scenarios. He has delivered bespoke risk survey reports for fine art and general specie clients across the UK, Europe, and Southeast Asia, supporting insurers, brokers, and underwriters with clear, actionable insights. Harry's background also includes leadership roles in international security operations and commercial sectors, where he was responsible for operational planning, team oversight, and safety compliance. Known for his disciplined, solutions-focused approach, Harry consistently delivers professional, discreet, and results-driven service tailored to each client's unique security needs.
